Why is racism still tolerated in Aotearoa?
mainstream media supports and promotes racism don't care
don't know alternatives normalising discourse fear of 'other'
colonising culture deep-seated active resistance
Lack of education
it's hard to address
power
where is the evidence that the dominant culture benefits from racism? how will the dominant culture gain? current lack of evidence? need to keep proving it perpetuated and ignored by dominant culture it works for the dominant culture systems and structures support racism examples of racism seen as individual acts - not a collective problem part of dominant culture narrative: best race relations in the world narrative of 'We're helping them out.' (paternalism) narrative of dominance (our way is best) discourses which rationalise racism, e g. some of my best friends are Māori Its hard to talk about - doesn't fit lack of language to name racism counter-discourses get discarded not accessible lack of counter-discourses where is the anti-racism movement in Aotearoa?
Spaghetti junction example:
Why is racism tolerated in Aotearoa?